

Are You Ready To EVOLVE?

Dear John,

I can't believe you deceived me all this time. You promised we were going to get married. When I told you, my job was ending you acted as though it was my fault. The company was moving to China, not me!

It's like everything started happening all at once. I needed you more than ever since my illness kept me from driving.

Why did you leave me? I'll answer.

Only because the conditions changed; I stopped working, and I became ill. Everything else in our relationship was the same.

Writing this letter has allowed me to recognize you weren't my soul-mate. Thank you for the experience. I can now move on to something bigger and better.

The Evolving Woman